With a team of well qualified distinguished teaching faculties who have been actively engaged in academic pursuits in addition to institutional responsibilities.

About The Seminar

What do we need to change our Indian Education system? Education has been a problem in our country and lack of it has been blamed for all sorts of evil of hundreds of years. Even Ravindra Nath Tagore wrote lengthy articles about how Indian Education system need to change. Funny things is that from the colonial times, few things have changed. We have established IITs, IIMs, Law Schools, Teacher Education institutes and other institute of excellence, students now routinely score 90% marks so that even students with 90% + find it difficult to get in to the colleges of their choice; but we do more of the same old stuff. Learning still plagues our system, student study only to score marks in exam like IIT JEE, AIMS or CLAT. The colonial masters introduced education system in India. to create clerks and civil servants, and we have not divided much from that pattern till today. If once the youngsters prepared en masse for civil services and bank officers exams they now prepare to become engineers. If there are a few centers of educational excellence for each of those there are thousands mediocre and terrible schools, colleges and now even universities that do not meet even minimum standards. If things have changed little bit somewhere. Elsewhere things have sunk into further inertia corruption and lack of ambition.

Creating few more schools or allowing hundreds of college and private universities to mushroom is not going to solve the crisis of Education in India. And a crisis it is-we are in a country where people are spending their parents life saving and borrowed money on Education even then not getting standard Education and struggling to find employment of their choice. In this country millions of student are victim of an unrealistic, pointless, mindless rat race. We also live in a country where the people see education as the means of climbing the social and economic ladder. If the Education system is falling-then it is certainly not due to lack of demand for good education.

Education system in India is falling because of more intrinsic reasons. There are systemic faults that do not let our demand for good Education translate in to a great market place with excellent Education service. Now we want to discuss about the changing scenario of the Education and like to invite you for the same.

The Aim of Seminar

The aim of the seminar is to re-define the purpose of the education system in the changing scenario of education in progressive India. Lets explore something else in this area-that should change in India the educational system. The goal of our new education system should be to create entrepreneurs, innovators, artists, scientist the foundation of a knowledge based economy rather than the low quality service provider nation that we are turning in to.
